Dear Mr. Perkla:

So you know that job interview I mentioned last time? The really important one that I was sure I messed up at? Well, guess what? I actually got the job. Hoorah! I guess I didn't stumble over my answers as much as I thought I did.

In the meantime, I've just been hanging out with some of my friends here. A few old buddies and I went to catch a game the other day. I know you're not into football, so I won't bore you with any of the details.

That brings me to my next piece of exciting news: I met a girl at the bar. A real beauty, too. Her name is Emily, but goes by Millie. We got to talking for a bit, and I found out that she majored in History Education at USC.

Sincerely Yours,

Jovanne Erida
Manager
